

RUZZIELAMB STILL LOVES

LOVED EVEN WHEN HE PRINTED HELEN'S LETTERS.

enters. Too, which is more than she does—told her it was wrong to love her—her husband found his letters and made her sue for the suit.

Russell Gardner Griswold, chorus man, who is suing Miss Helen Woodruff Smith before Supreme Court Justice Brown and a jury to recover $50,000 damages for breach of promise, was cross-examined yesterday afternoon by Edmund L. Mooney, after his counsel had put in about 200 letters, some of them more or less ardent but none containing a promise to marry. Miss Smith, who had been heavily veiled, uncovered her face in order that she might fully enjoy them.

Mr. Mooney endeavored to show that while "Stiegfried" pretended to be so devoted to his "Brunnhilde" he was paying attention to some other "Brunnhilde," whose name was written on a sheet of paper handed to the witness. This woman was referred to only as "Mrs. C." and Mr. Mooney tried to show that Griswold had gone driving with her at least 100 times in the period when he says he was faithful to the defendant and objected to having other men calling on her. Griswold said that "Mrs. C." had been a fellow patient with him in a sanitarium and that she was a friend of his family, but denied that he had been attentive to her. "When you say the defendant, then Mrs. Homer Cummings, induced you to go to her home at Stamford to do clerical work, you mean to do chores?" asked Mr. Mooney.

"I do," said Griswold. "I used to run errands for her; do anything she wanted me to do. When I found out there on business I did it openly, but in the evenings I used to skip in the back door and she would meet me, and we would go and spend in her cabin or some place where no one could see us."

"Then you admit that by using the back door on these occasions you went there as a guilty man?"

"I do."

"When did you first feel that you were guilty?"

"The second time I went."

"And you told her so?"

"Yes; I said I knew I wasn't doing right, but she persisted in loving me to see her, and I was so deeply in love with her that I couldn't resist."

"The woman tempted you and you fell?"

"And I fell in love with her, yes."

"Won't you admit that a large number of these letters are light and playful, with no real purpose behind them?"

"It may have been just foolishness on my part, but it was a serious business with me."

"It was, eh? Haven't you been telling this jury right along that it was the woman who was the transgressor in all the love making?"

"I haven't meant to give such an impression. I loved her and made love to her as much as she did to me."

Ruzzielamb repeated that it was Miss Smith who first broached marriage to him, and said that he had been ready and willing to marry her, and is ready to do so, he said. Mr. Mooney asked if he remembered giving a lot of her letters to a newspaper for publication in July, 1910, and he said he did.

"Why did you do that?"

"To get satisfaction and prove that Miss Smith's assertion that I was trying to blackmail her was not true."

"And you got satisfaction?"

"I did."

"What were we here for?" asked Mr. Mooney savagely.

Griswold's counsel objected to the question, but the court overruled him. The plaintiff replied that he only had the letters published to protect his name from slander and prove he wasn't a blackmailer, and got a certain amount of satisfaction out of that.

"You say you love this woman still and yet you staid her in the back by making public these love letters from her to you?"

Objection sustained this time. Mr. Mooney led the witness to state that he believed that he was the cause for the divorce which Mrs. Cummings went out West to get. At least he was "mixed up in it," he said.

"Will you explain how you could have been mixed up in a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Cummings in South Dakota for non-support against Homer Cummings?"

"Helen told me that Mr. Cummings had broken into her desk and taken 125 of my letters. She said he called her to his office and told her he would sue for divorce, naming me as defendant, unless she went West and got a divorce herself. He gave her that chance for her boy's sake and she took it."

The plaintiff was asked about an occasion when he and Miss Smith went to see the play "The Love Cure," and whether they discussed "The Love Cure" after the play.

"Yes, we did. We talked of our coming marriage, of how we loved each other, and she said I should be miserable going home on the case she held over me, naming me as defendant, unless she went West and got a divorce herself. He gave her that chance for her boy's sake and she took it."

A letter that brought laughter from Miss Smith read:

"POOR DEAR LITTLE RUZZIELAMB. Just a line, because the wireless is out of order. Please keep on getting better. How do you like your nurse? Whatever you do don't marry her. I would give a dollar to see you, so here is the wireless again working. How is your carburetor? Mine is fine."

Griswold remarked that he believed Miss Smith got her technical terms mixed and that as she was speaking of a wireless outfit she had meant to say "battery."

A picture that was offered showed Griswold and Miss Smith posed as Romeo and Juliet.

"Helen thought it would be cute if she and I were taken as Romeo and Juliet, so she got a rope ladder," said the witness.

What did your relatives and friends say after your break with Miss Smith in 1907?"

"That I was a fool to have wasted nine years on her and then let her throw me over and get away with it."

"What was the first part of that answer?" asked Mr. Mooney. Then when Griswold repeated "I was a fool" the lawyer insisted that he still couldn't hear it and got the plaintiff to say "I was a fool" three times.

"Have you suffered mental anguish both before and after the action in bringing her promise to you?" asked the plaintiff's lawyer in concluding his case.

"I certainly have suffered."

AN OPIUM RAID.

Drug Packages as Nuts and Cold Cream Found in Cigar Store.

Deputy Surveyor Edward Norwood of the customs service went into the Boston cigar store at 256 West Thirty-seventh street yesterday and found a man who gave his name as John Godell selling Chinese pipes that had been carefully opened and filled with opium.

Godell, when arrested, said he was merely tending the cigar counter while the man who owned the place was absent. Boston Al was the only name by which Godell knew the proprietor, and said that he didn't know Al's present whereabouts.

While in the store the Deputy Surveyor found some other things that contained opium. Among them were numbers of small jars once used for cold cream. The jars had been used to hold opium and filled with the drug.

Godell was taken to the Greenwich street station. He will be arraigned in the Federal court to-day.

NO. 1 Buckwheat

Coal is known as a "steam" size and is sold at low prices in competition with soft coal. The Spencer Steam or Hot Water Heater is the only household heater that successfully burns it.

SPENCER HEATER CO.
N. Y. Office, 501 Fifth Ave., Cor. 42d St.

GOT ALL STUDENT'S MONEY.

Swindled American Boy Tries to Poison Himself in London.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Oct. 17.—A 21-year-old boy, who was described as a student and the son of a wealthy parent living in the island, was arraigned in court here to-day on a charge of attempted suicide.

The young man, according to the testimony, was on a holiday trip to Europe and while in Paris was swindled out of all his money by confidence sharpers. He arrived in London without a cent, but was befriended by a taxicab chauffeur who paid for his lodgings and meals.

The young man became despondent and did not wish that his parents should hear of his troubles attempted to kill himself by drinking sulphate of copper. He was remanded in custody to give the authorities an opportunity to communicate with his parents.

COREAN REVOLT RUMORED.

Story Via Mukden of Uprising Against the Japanese Rule.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. SINGAPORE, Oct. 17.—News has been received here from Mukden, Manchuria, to the effect that a rebellion has broken out in Korea. Several thousand natives have arisen and declared war on the Japanese.

Japan annexed Korea about a year ago and renamed it Chosen. The Land of Morning Calm. Lieut.-Gen. Viscount Terauchi was appointed Japanese Resident-General. The Emperor became a Prince and now ranks after the Japanese Crown Prince.

The administration of Korea was transferred to the Japanese Home Department. The Japanese had been intriguing to secure Korea for some 400 years.

NEW PERUVIAN CABINET.

Agostin Ganoza Forms a Ministry After a Long Delay.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LIMA, Peru, Oct. 17.—The new and long delayed Cabinet was sworn in this afternoon. It is made up as follows:

President of the Cabinet and Minister of Justice—Agostin Ganoza.

Minister of Foreign Affairs—German Leguia Martinez.

Minister of Finance—Ernesto Rael.

Minister of War—Juan Manuel Delatorre.

Minister of Public Works—Agostin Delatorre Gonzales.

Minister of the Interior—Placido Jimenez.

DOMITIAN'S DINING ROOM.

Fine Pavement of Granite and Marble Uncovered by Prof. Boni.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. ROME, Oct. 17.—Prof. Boni, who has been investigating the ruins of the Domus Flavia on the Palatine, has discovered almost intact the pavement of the dining hall of the Emperor Domitian. It is a thousand square meters in area, of Oriental granite, and is bordered with Numidian marble. The pavement was the richest in any of the imperial palaces of the first century.

SILVER GETS A BOOST.

Big Demand in China and India; Supply Limited in London.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Oct. 17.—There was a sharp rise of 1/4d. an ounce in the price of silver to-day on buying by China and India. The supply is limited. Bars are quoted at 24s. 1/2d. an ounce for immediate delivery and 34s. 1/2d. for forward shipments.

GO BACK OR LOSE ESTATES.

Ultimatum of Portuguese Government to Royalist Fugitives.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LISBON, Oct. 17.—The Government has ordered all emigrants of royalist sympathies who were not concerned in the recent uprising to return to Portugal under pain of the confiscation of their estates.

BRITAIN ANNEX EGYPT?

Berlin Boasts Troubled Yesterday by a Persistent Rumor.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. BERLIN, Oct. 17.—There was a persistent rumor on the Berlin to-day that Great Britain will shortly annex Egypt.

The Weather.

Oct. 18. The Western storm had moved north eastward yesterday and was central over Lake Superior, with a trough of depression and rainy weather extending from the lake regions southward to the Gulf. There was evidence of another storm central in the Gulf. The rainfall was heavy in the Gulf States and the Tennessee Valley and there were showers in the Atlantic States.

The pressure was high over most of the West and over the North Atlantic States.

It was warmer in the Atlantic States, the upper Ohio Valley and the lake regions and in Wyoming, Montana and western Idaho. It was cooler southward from the Dakotas, Minnesota and the upper lakes to Texas and the middle Gulf States.

There were free-line temperatures in the Rocky Mountain States and frosts in Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas.

In this city the day was cloudy, with light showers; warmer, wind, light to fresh southeast; average humidity, 81 per cent; barometer, corrected to sea level, at 8 A. M., 30.16, 5 P. M., 30.11.

The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown in the annexed table:

1911. 1910. 1909. 1908. 1907.

8 A. M. 57° 65° 6 P. M. 57° 65° 6 P. M. 57° 65° 6 P. M. 57° 65° 6 P. M. 57° 65°

12 M. 57° 65° 12 M. 57° 65° 12 M. 57° 65° 12 M. 57° 65° 12 M. 57° 65°

3 P. M. 57° 65° 3 P. M. 57° 65° 3 P. M. 57° 65° 3 P. M. 57° 65° 3 P. M. 57° 65°

Highest temperature, 59°; at 2 P. M.

WASHINGTON FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

For eastern New York and New Jersey, rain to-day; brisk to high east to south winds; fair to morning.

For New England, rain to-day; brisk easterly winds; generally fair to morning.

For the Middle West, rain to-day; brisk to high easterly winds; fair to morning.

For the Southern States, rain to-day; moderate to brisk easterly winds; becoming variable; fair to morning.

For Delaware, rain to-day; with brisk east to south winds; fair to morning.

For Maryland, rain to-day; moderate to brisk easterly winds; becoming variable; fair to morning.

For the District of Columbia, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For western New York, local rains and slightly cooler to-day; fair to morning; moderate westerly winds; becoming variable.

For western Pennsylvania, cloudy to-day; fair to morning; light to moderate westerly winds; becoming variable.

For the West, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Pacific States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Rocky Mountain States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Colorado States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Utah States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Arizona States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the New Mexico States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Texas States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Oklahoma States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Kansas States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Nebraska States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

For the Missouri States, rain to-day; fair to morning; moderate variable winds.

IMPEACH EX-GRAND VIZIER

TURKS MAY MAKE HAKKI PASHA SCAPEGOAT FOR TRIPOLI.

The Porte Vague About Terms of Peace—Fleet Sent to Fight Italians in the Aegean—Europe Nervous Over Trade Interference—Balkan Army Moves.

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 17.—The Triplican members of the Chamber of Deputies have moved to impeach Hakkı Pasha and his Cabinet. The charges include the reduction of the garrison of Tripoli, insufficient organization and conscription, and the removal of arms from the provinces.

The impeachment has been referred to the Committee of Union and Progress. Replying to the latest note of the Powers, Turkey has refused to be more explicit in regard to the details of her proposals for mediation. The Porte says the maximum of Turkey's concessions has already been stated.

Stronger measures for the security of Constantinople are being taken. There are fears of a rising of the populace against the Young Turks.

SOFIA, Oct. 17.—The Government received to-day a representative of the Turkish Government who was sent here especially to repeat the pacific assurances of the Porte in regard to Bulgaria. He said the concentration of Turkish troops on the Bulgarian frontier would cease.

BELOGRADE, Oct. 17.—The Drina division of the Serbian army on the Bosnian frontier was moved yesterday. The Minister of War, however, announced that this action has no particular meaning, that it was merely a trial mobilization and that other divisions would also be brought together in a similar manner. All the officers of the reserve, even those residing abroad, have been called to the colors for the maneuvers.

VIENNA, Oct. 17.—A despatch from Constantinople says that the Turkish fleet has left the Bosphorus with orders to protect the harbors of the Egeus and to engage Italian warships should occasion arise. Italy's proceedings that the Turkish fleet has left the Bosphorus with orders to protect the harbors of the Egeus and to engage Italian warships should occasion arise.

It is believed here that Italy will immediately divert the major portion of her fleet from the coast of Tripoli for the occupation of several islands of the archipelago and for the blockade and eventual bombardment of Smyrna in case of continued resistance by Turkey.

ATHENS, Oct. 17.—Firing was heard at Corfu yesterday morning coming from the direction of the bay coast of Epirus. Some time later an Italian war vessel was seen steaming away. Thick smoke arose from the shore, and it is presumed that the warship bombarded some small town and that the shore was being shelled.

ROME, Oct. 17.—The Admiralty denies the report from Athens that an Italian warship bombarded a town on the Egeus coast, presumably Gumnitza.

A semi-official telegram from Tripoli this morning says the situation there is unchanged.

THE CROWN IN COMMISSION.

George V. Will Name High Officers to Act for Him While He's in India.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Oct. 17.—During the absence of King George in India for the coronation, a commission appointed by him will act in his name. The names of those who form the commission have not yet been announced.

It is probable that it will include the Lord Chancellor, Lord Loreburn, Premier Asquith and the Lord President of the Council.

PAINT MONA LISA'S NAILS.

The Ones That Didn't Hold Her—French Artist's Salon Joke.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. PARIS, Oct. 17.—The painter Jean Béraud, called at the Louvre this morning and sketched the four historical nudes which failed to hold "La Joconde" in her wonted position on the walls of the gallery.

He is going to send a picture of the nails to the next Salon.

Turning Out Braganzas.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. OPORTO, Oct. 17.—The two sons of Dom Miguel de Braganza, the old-line pretender, have been invited to leave Portuguese territory. They have refused to go, saying that they are Austrian subjects.

KELLOGG DURLAND IS HELD.

Writer Escapes Bail Forfeiture, but Faces Hotel Man's Charge.

Kellogg Durland, friend of Magistrate Joseph Corrigan, sponsor for Li Quong Jung's, otherwise Charley Boston's, pistol permit, magazine writer and allegedly friend of King Alfonso of Spain, was held for trial as a hotel beat by Magistrate O'Connor in the West Side court yesterday.

Durland, who has travelled the world over as a special correspondent of several magazines, being arrested in Russia in the revolution of 1906-07 several times as a political spy, was accused by Thomas Carroll, president of the Hotel Hermitage Company, with having beaten the hotel out of a board bill of $358.

This was not all, according to Mr. Carroll. On July 11 last, according to the complaint, he presented a $400 check drawn on the Hotel Hermitage Company in payment of his bill, but requested a loan of $120 thereon. The check bore the signature of Genevieve Durland, the defendant's wife.

The latter on the telephone disclaimed all knowledge of the transaction, according to Mr. Carroll, and said she had but $15 remaining to her account in the Hudson Trust Company, Manhattan. However, Durland paid $200 to Carroll.

Mrs. Durland since early in the summer has been occupying at Monroe, N. Y., the dwelling she leased from Ferdinand Finney Fair of affinity law.

The warrant for Durland's arrest was obtained a week ago and he was arrested last Friday at the Explorers' Club, in West Twenty-ninth street. The $200 bail required by Magistrate Herrman was produced that night, but on Monday was declared forfeited by Magistrate O'Connor when Durland did not appear for a hearing. He was supposed to be in Washington. Yesterday the forfeiture was rescinded when he appeared for a hearing.

Durland, who was represented by Lawyer Emil Fuchs, put in no defence yesterday and was held in $250 cash bail for trial.

The defendant as a writer had subscribed story to the Boston Transcript denouncing Mayor Gaynor at the time of the "white slave" exposé in this city and had also described Commissioner Waldo as a "Gangster" in the Boston Herald at the time of the latter's appointment. He declares that these two or others are behind his arrest. The $250 bail was furnished.

IT IS APPARENT

that the organization which actually performs the greatest percentage of its work direct also saves to the Owner the greatest percentage of sub-contractors' profits.

And as we ourselves perform the greatest percentage of work direct, it is apparent why we consistently give the most economical results.

THOMPSON-STARRETT COMPANY

Building Construction
Fifty-One Wall Street

A SARTORIAL SOLOMON.

Magistrate Bulwarks an Actress in Dress While Appraising Her Gown.

The knowledge of feminine wearing apparel stood Magistrate Keyran J. O'Connor in good stead in the West Side court yesterday. Miss Dorothy Dale, dainty, petite and a brunette sometime an actress and said by her lawyer to be a daughter of Della Fox, was in the witness box. A question of wardrobe came up.

"Why, I'm as good a judge of feminine finery as any one," said the Magistrate without the trace of a blush upon his countenance.

"The dress she wore in here yesterday was worth easily $200."

He referred to the white silk evening gown in which, with white slippers and stockings to match, Miss Dale appeared before him for a summons for Charles A. Hollingsworth, manager of the King Edward Hotel, at 155 West Forty-seventh street.

"My $1,000 wardrobe, comprising six coats, one of which alone cost $600; thirty-five dresses, nineteen hats and several dozen pairs of shoes, was ruined to several hundred dollars worth," complained the young woman.

"It's nonsense," replied the lawyer for Hollingsworth. "She only had a couple of hundred dollars worth of clothes there."

"I don't care," replied the court with true Celtic chivalry. "Well, the dress I saw yesterday was worth easily $200."

Then to Hollingsworth: "You'll have to give what she needs. Give her three suits of all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand. Meanwhile I'll set this case over to the 19th."

Miss Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had applied to the Magistrate the previous day for a summons for Hollingsworth. It seems, according to her complaint, that a leak had ruined some of her wardrobe and when she complained all the accessories that her comfort and necessities may demand.

Magistrate Dale had